
Syrah - Les Tatzes

Terroir des Tatzes (or Les Tâches), 510 to 565 metres above sea level. South-east facing. Loess soils on rock. Winegrowers call them 'red soils'. Prone to rapid evaporation, they are poor in nutrients and very well-drained. Very shallow soils directly overlying gneiss, practically free of dicles and faults.

Wine

From a terroir included in Les Follatères, this Syrah offers an expressive nose of grapefruit and Timut pepper. The wine is very juicy, full-bodied, wild, yet refined in texture, with unexpected freshness. It ages beautifully.

Wine-making

Partial or total whole bunch vinification, ageing in large oak vats and used barrels for 12 to 18 months, then bottle ageing for 3 to 18 months.
